Dear Utah GIS,
One of the greatest assets to the SWUG community is the ability for GIS practitioners to come together and share their experiences and insight. User presentations make SWUG the great conference that it is. We would love to hear about your applications and projects!

Presentations are invited that address topics of interest to the GIS community. The objective of the conference is to provide GIS-related information and educational opportunities for anyone in government, education, business or the community at large with a stake in GIS data, analysis and processes. Such topics include, but are not limited to:

- GIS in Public Health
- GIS in Agriculture
- GIS in Energy Resources and Utility Management
- GIS in Natural Resources and Water Resources
- GIS in Education
- GIS in Land Use Planning and Growth Management
- GIS in Homeland Security and Emergency Response
- GIS Project Management and Enterprise Implementation
- Software Customization and Extensions
- Cadastral and Parcel Mapping
- Mobile Computing
- GIS on the Web

All presentations that involve cartography, geospatial analysis or application development must involve the use of ESRI products or that of their authorized business partners and developers. SWUG is a user's group conference for GIS professionals who use ESRI software and related products.
